MESSAGE

Fr. Dr. Lourdu Prasad Joseph Rector and Manager

As we embark on yet another academic year 2024-25, I am indeed elated to pen a few words to my academic fraternity and my dear students. All great achievements have humble beginnings. When the call came to don the mantle of leadership of St. Philo's, it was indeed a pleasant surprise. Nevertheless, I accepted this delicate rather difficult responsibility trusting in the immense goodness of the Lord for whom nothing is impossible. In fact, God's ways are mysterious. He surprises us more often than we do.

As a proud alumnus of this prestigious institution, I am grateful to all those great souls whose undaunted courage and vision, made possible what Philo's is today. And we are here at this historical moment of time to keep alive those noble ideals of our visionary forefathers. I wish and pray that the Good Lord blesses all of us, and that all our endeavours in bringing back the pristine glory of our college bear hundred fold fruition. Dreams do come, if only we wish hard enough. You can have anything in life if you will sacrifice everything else for it. Looking forward to a fruitful academic year 2024-25.

“Deeksharambh” Orientation Program 2024: Empowering Fresh Beginnings

Respect for All: National Anti-Ragging Day Observed with Awareness Program

On August 12th, 2024, St. Philomena's College observed National Anti-Ragging Day with a significant event at 3:30 p.m. in the college auditorium. The program, jointly organized by the Anti-Ragging Committee and the Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC), commenced with the principal introducing the committee members and outlining their roles and responsibilities.

Ms. Panchama, Assistant Professor in the Department of Political Science and Coordinator of the Anti-Ragging Committee, presented a concise and informative PowerPoint presentation on anti-ragging measures and initiatives. This was followed by the Principal and Rector leading the students in a collective pledge to maintain a ragging-free environment on campus.

The event reinforced the college's commitment to providing a safe, supportive, and inclusive atmosphere for all students, free from harassment and intimidation.

By promoting awareness and encouraging student participation, the college aims to uphold its zero-tolerance policy against ragging.

Saluting The Spirit of Freedom: Flag Hoisting and Exhibition on Freedom Struggle, Mark Independence Day

EXHIBITION PHOTO'S

Mysuru, August 15, 2024 – The 78th Independence Day was celebrated with great enthusiasm and patriotic fervour. The event, held at 8:15 a.m. in front of the college auditorium, began with the flag hoisting ceremony, presided over by the Chief Guest, Rev. Fr. Sebastian Alexander, Financial Administrator of the Mysore Diocese. The national flag was hoisted by Rev. Fr. Sebastian Alexander, followed by the rendition of the national anthem, filling the atmosphere with pride and patriotism. In his address, Fr. Sebastian emphasized the significance of unity, integrity, and the sacrifices made by freedom fighters who laid the foundation for India's independence.

He urged the gathering to reflect on the country's struggle for freedom and appreciate the contributions of those who fought for its sovereignty.

Following the flag hoisting, the Department of History (UG) organized an exhibition titled "Revisiting the Freedom Struggle of India." The exhibition, held in the college auditorium, showcased a collection of pictures depicting significant events and personalities that played a pivotal role in India's journey to independence. The Chief Guest inaugurated the exhibition with a tape-cutting ceremony.

The event was well-attended by students, faculty members, and non-teaching staff from the PUC, UG, and PG departments. The Independence Day celebration at St. Philomena's College served as a poignant reminder of the sacrifices made by freedom fighters and inspired attendees to contribute to the nation's progress with dedication and unity.

The exhibition provided a unique opportunity for students and staff to reflect on the historical struggle for freedom and to appreciate the contributions of those who fought for the nation's sovereignty.

“The Feeling of Breeze-E-Excellence: Unlocking Your Path to Excellence”

- Suvaiba Hanzala
BCA

I feel like something's lacking, but what? My words vanish like ephemeral energy. I fear losing friends and not making my parents proud. Am I saying 'yes' to everyone? Do I act too innocent? I feel taken advantage of, like a weirdo. Should I return to comfort? But I was never comfortable. This discomfort, or "FOMO," can be addressed through "The Feeling of Breeze-e-Excellence" - living with purpose, not chasing emotions. I've started embracing each moment with gratitude and positivity. We crave human connection, but often settle for survival, not truly living. My daily routine is a perfect example: wake up, brush teeth, get ready, eat, attend college, eat again, sleep, and repeat. This monotony highlights our need for meaningful connections and purpose.

Let's transform this routine into an empowering experience. Here's my revised daily schedule:

- I wake up with gratitude, thankful for a new day.
- I brush my teeth, smiling at my reflection, embracing my individuality.
- I get ready, wrapping myself in self-love and acceptance.
- I savor breakfast, expressing appreciation for the nourishment.
- I attend college, feeling purposeful and engaged.
- I return from college, having shared laughter and insights with friends.
- I enjoy my evening meal, mindful of the blessings in my life.
- I drift off to sleep, acknowledging today's accomplishments, releasing regrets, and embracing a peaceful rest, knowing I truly lived today.

Foolishness can be beneficial, but perfection is not. Your current thoughts are positive. Walking through familiar streets isn't easy, but becoming strong for small victories, knowing the storm will come, is crucial. It's okay to be imperfect. Humans are good, but they aren't always good humans. Free yourself rather than trying to heal yourself. Atrocious things are pulling us down, but never be afraid to defeat them. My friend, you are here to succeed. "Life is all about us, not I." This is the feeling of breeze-e-excellence.

INTERVIEW

CHUKKI BA- JOURNALISM

Dr. Seetha R, Head of the Tamil Department at St. Philomena's College, has been conferred the prestigious National Excellence Award by the Xavier Board of Higher Education for her exceptional research contributions. Her academic achievements are impressive:

- M.A. in Tamil
- Ph.D. in Linguistics with Statistics
- M.A. and M.Phil. In English
- M.A. in Psychology
- M.A. in Sociology
- Diplomas in Linguistics, Journalism, and Kannada

Notably, she has translated the esteemed Tamil grammar book "Nannul" into Kannada. Dr. Seetha R. has published over 150 papers in international and national seminars, receiving numerous awards from private organizations. She has presented papers globally, including in Malaysia, Singapore, Geneva, and Abu Dhabi. Her poems and literary talks are available on YouTube, courtesy of outlets like Germany Air Station, the UK, the Netherlands, and Surya TV."

Ma'am, could you share some insights about your childhood?

I experienced significant transformations during my college days. As a student, I had a passion for writing poetry. During my time at All India Radio, I was interviewed by officials and responded fearlessly, showcasing my knowledge. I didn't feel any fear at that time. Many people recognized my talent for writing poetry and suggested I pursue an M.A. in Tamil, which I did. I also completed a diploma in journalism and had the opportunity to interview Governor Sadik Ali.

What inspired you to pursue your accomplishments, and who has been your role model?

As a young girl, I idolized doctors and felt a sense of fulfillment just by seeing them. I would daydream about becoming a doctor and wearing a white coat - a dream that still resonates with me today. One doctor, Dr. Ponnamma, stood out to me as an exemplary model of kindness and humility. Even now, I feel a deep sense of admiration and respect whenever I see a doctor. Although I didn't become a doctor, I find inspiration in everyday life. I embrace a growth mindset, always learning from each experience and absorbing knowledge like a sponge.

What advice would you give to young girls striving to achieve their dreams?

Be authentic and true to yourself. Remember, role models can evolve over time. It's okay to re-evaluate and change your role model if their ideologies no longer align with yours. Don't hesitate to seek new inspiration if needed. You can find inspiration in any profession - from a tailor to a carpenter to an electrician. Every job has its unique beauty, so keep exploring until you find someone who sparks your passion. You can have multiple goals; once you achieve one, move on to the next. If a particular goal seems impossible, explore alternative paths and try a different approach.

Stepping Stone to Success : My Unforgettable First Day of College

Hema, BTBMB

My first day at college was truly enjoyable. The campus was spacious and picturesque, with an abundance of lush greenery. The faculty members were exceptionally kind and welcoming. I found the biochemistry class engaging, thanks to the professor's effective teaching style. The English class was particularly delightful, as the instructor made the lecture both informative and entertaining. Throughout the day, we navigated between classrooms for each subject, a noble experience for me. The campus library was impressive, offering a vast array of resources for studying. Additionally, the college had a cafe and canteen with diverse food options. By the end of the day, I had already formed connections with some new friends. Overall, my first day at college exceeded my expectations.

Simran, BCA

As I stepped into the campus as a first-year BCA student, a mix of emotions swirled inside me - excitement for new adventures, nervousness about meeting new people, and a hint of uncertainty about what lay ahead. Taking a deep breath, I slung my backpack over my shoulder, symbolizing my readiness to tackle challenges and seize opportunities. With a map in hand and determination in my heart, I made my way to my first class, eager to embark on this new chapter. I was ready to embrace the unknown, form lasting connections, and create memories that would have a lasting impact. The campus, with its vibrant atmosphere and state-of-the-art facilities, seemed to promise growth, learning, and self-discovery. I felt a sense of belonging, knowing I was about to become part of a community that would shape me into a skilled professional and compassionate individual.

Arshiya Khanum, BCA

My first day at St. Philomena's College was a memorable experience, filled with excitement and new encounters. Initially, I felt apprehensive about adapting to a new environment, particularly since I come from a non-CS background and had taken a leap by choosing BCA - a field entirely different from my previous studies. However, my concerns were quickly alleviated when I met the principal and lecturers, who radiated warmth, friendliness, and unwavering support. Their welcoming demeanor instantly put me at ease. As I continue to attend classes, I'm convinced that joining St. Philomena's was a wise decision. The college's nurturing atmosphere, coupled with the faculty's expertise and encouragement, has already begun to instill in me a sense of confidence and belonging. I'm eager to embrace this new chapter, explore my potential, and make the most of the opportunities that lie ahead.
